

A _____ is any disease which may be passed from animals to _____ or people to animals.

Approximately 60% of all human _____ are zoonotic and ____% of emerging infectious diseases have an animal origin.

Within the Eukarya domain agents may be _____, _____ or animals.

The infectious agents involved in many zoonotic diseases are considered _____.

Recall that in a parasitic _____, the host is the organism on or in which a _____ lives and feeds.

_____ parasites are spread when humans ingest water that has been contaminated by an infected animal.

_____ is the most common way people become infected with zoonotic parasites.

_____ foods can be contaminated with harmful _____ and meat can also contain parasitic cysts which may infect people.